In the life of an older man, routine helps him get through the day. Jozef is used to his daily routine: wake up, go to the factory, eat lunch. His life is measured by his perfunctory work, the rhythm of the day, and his regular habits. His wife packs his lunch in his lunch box, gives him a clean shirt, and sends him off to work, just as she has done for many years. One day his wife suffers a stroke and his system collapses.

Shaped by motionless darkness, Slovakia's underground world is ruled by calm and silence. You will become enchanted by the diverse moulds, water-shaped passages, massive underground halls, narrow canyons with hurling waterfalls or crystal-clear lakes. It is no wonder as to why how many of these caves have been listed among the world heritage.
